SUGGESTIONS FOR CONSIDERATION BY THE DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL

INTELLIGENCE FOR INCORPORATION IN HIS CLOSING REMARKS

AT PROJECT USEFUL ON FRIDAY, 7 NOVEMBER 1958

23 October 1958
AT 1100
FROM 1200 TO 1300 HOURS

1. Review: General Cabell, ~~our four deputy directors~~ ^{and a large number of} and 28

~~other responsible officials~~ ^{senior officers} of the several components of CIA have attempted, during the past ten days, to describe concisely the national policy from which this Agency receives its mission; the internal organization and functions that are designed to accomplish these missions; the inter-agency liaison and coordination that is conducted to assure the most effective implementation and maximum productivity; and the capabilities and limitations of the CIA to support the military in several areas of the world. They have attempted, in a restricted period of time, to familiarize you with those aspects of our programs, within the ^{limits} ~~boundaries~~ of security, that are of mutual interest and common concern. Our mission is threefold:

~~Collection of foreign intelligence through clandestine mechanisms -- Protection~~

~~of our operations and the nation's security through active covert counter-~~

~~intelligence programs -- and finally, assisting in the attainment of~~

~~prescribed foreign policy objectives through covert action operations~~

~~that include programs in the propaganda, psychological, political,~~ ~~economic and paramilitary categories.~~) I believe that you, as members of the military establishment, are most concerned with two ^{aspect of} of these

~~what you have~~ ^{described, namely:} ~~which have~~ ~~several categories:~~ the collection of intelligence and this Agency's capabilities to support, by clandestine means, your operations in war-time.

Although time limitations precluded presentations in depth of the ^{specific} programs ^{conduct} this Agency ~~prosecutes~~ in the interest of our common concern -- the preservation of the security of the United States -- I hope that they have been beneficial in terms of ^{giving} ~~providing~~ you ^{on} ~~with~~ increased knowledge of the role of CIA in National Security Affairs.

To

2. Re-emphasize: Collection of foreign intelligence is not an exclusive mission of CIA. As ^{you own organizations,} ~~you gentlemen well know,~~ the military ~~attache system, the G-2, A-2 and ONI organizations,~~ the Department of State, and several other U. S. departments and agencies have important roles in this vital national security operation. CIA is in constant liaison

~~the present~~ ^{which have} ~~with the~~ ^{little in} ~~several~~ departments and agencies. Our relationships have ^{the full.}

been amicable and productive over the years as we have ~~striven~~^{tried}, mutually, to improve the effectiveness of our ~~endeavors~~^{intelligence programs}. Most of you probably have been ~~most~~^{highly} interested in those areas of activity undertaken by our Agency that have to do with supporting the military in active theaters of war.
In this connection, we have responsibilities for the establishment and maintenance of covert staybehind organizations, clandestine evasion and escape mechanisms, and other assets that might be employed as required, and directed, to lend covert support to the successful prosecution of the war against the enemy. I believe that you have been given an insight into our capabilities and ~~limitations~~^{some of our problems} for these tasks. We constantly hope, within the limits of priorities and budgets, to increase our capabilities in this vital area. Liaison on matters of common concern to the Department of Defense and the CIA is carried on at various levels of Government, including my personal relationships with Defense Representatives in the Operations Coordinating Board and ~~the~~^{NSC} 5412 Representatives down to desk-to-desk relationships of planning and operations officers. I am happy to state that at all levels we have found these contacts to be profitable and pleasant.

3. War Relationships: Considerable progress has been made over the years in defining the framework in which CIA and elements of the Department of Defense would coordinate and operate in time of war. There are still some areas of this relationship that require clarification but on the whole we have made ^{good} ~~fine~~ progress and continue to move forward. An excellent ~~living~~ example of this ~~fine~~ relationship is evident ~~here~~ in ^{- in Project USEFUL.} this room. I am most impressed with the wide geographical representation which the several services have sent to the 1959 Project USEFUL. I understand that in addition to officers from several important continental commands and staffs we have with us officers from ~~Europe~~, the Pacific, ~~the Caribbean~~, ~~Benama~~ and Alaska. This is a most gratifying demonstration of what we have always looked upon as a most noteworthy goal: mutuality of understanding of tasks and problems.

4. The Future: As long as Communism prevails ^{in this world} ~~on the Planet Earth~~, the people of the United States will need to have strong, efficient, effective and dedicated national security services. The ^{tasks} ~~missions~~ of CIA have increased tremendously during these years of Cold War and, for the foreseeable future, probably ^{will} ~~shall~~ continue to increase. The past several months have demonstrated clearly the added burdens that have been placed upon ~~our National Security apparatus~~ ^{our National Security apparatus} as the Communists strive to subvert and capture free countries in various corners of the world. Our tasks ^{is clear} ~~are plain~~ and challenging. We must approach ^{it} ~~them~~ with imagination and ^{untiring} ~~tireless~~ effort.

Gentlemen, are there any questions I might be able to answer for you?
